

Board of Directors

Thanasis Delistathis

Draper Atlantic

Member

Thanasis's background includes a mix of technology startup, finance and strategy consulting experience. Before May of 2000, he held executive positions at two internet media companies (etang, a leading Chinese portal; and LiveOnTheNet.com, an internet webcasting company). Prior to that, he spent two years in charge of investment banking for Thermo Electron Corp., a global technology company serving the life sciences, optical technologies and measurement and control markets. There he managed public and private market transactions totaling $900 million and advised the CEO and CFO on corporate structure and financial strategies. Thanasis also worked for: McKinsey & Co. in Washington, D.C. as a management consultant on issues of organizational change, business strategy, and marketing for Fortune 500 companies; iMarket, a business-to-business direct marketing software company, in new product development; and Merck, in information systems development.

Jim Lynch

Draper Atlantic

Member

Jim Lynch is a Founder and Managing Partner of Draper Atlantic. An experienced early-stage venture capitalist, Mr. Lynch has worked with Tim Draper of Draper Fisher Jurvetson since 1990 as a general partner in the Polaris Fund. On behalf of Polaris, Mr. Lynch made and monitored portfolio investments in early-stage companies in information technology and new media. Successful portfolio investments managed by Jim include Redgate Communications and Medior (both of which were acquired by AOL and have provided investors with returns of over 100 to 1), as well as Preview Travel/Travelocity, a leading provider of airline tickets and vacation packages over the Internet. Prior to joining the Polaris Fund, Mr. Lynch taught finance at INCAE, a Costa Rican based graduate school of business affiliated with Harvard University.

Andreas Stavropoulos

Draper Fisher Jurvetson

Observer

Andreas Stavropoulos is a Director at Draper Fisher Jurvetson (DFJ), where he serves on the Boards of a number of private companies, with a focus on software products and services, emerging Web service infrastructure, and wireless. Prior to joining DFJ, Mr. Stavropoulos was with McKinsey & Company's San Francisco office, where he worked with senior management teams of corporate clients with an emphasis on information technology. Prior to McKinsey, he was a Senior Analyst at Cornerstone Research, a financial and economic consulting firm that helps resolve complex issues arising in high-profile business litigation. Mr. Stavropoulos is a summa cum laude and Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Harvard College in computer science. He also holds an MS degree in computer science from Harvard University and an MBA from Harvard Business School, where he was a Baker Scholar and graduated first in his class.

Neville Street

InphoMatch

Member

Neville Street, Chief Executive Officer, has overall responsibility for the strategy, profitability and market success of InphoMatch. Mr. Street has more than 15 years of mobile and telecom experience, and was a key member of three executive teams that held successful IPOs. Prior to joining InphoMatch, Mr. Street served as CEO of Macrobridge, a strategic consulting firm for international wireless services companies. Previously, Mr. Street served as International CEO of OmniSky Corporation, was a member of the executive team that raised $250 million by taking OmniSky public on the NASDAQ, and helped build the company into a leader in wireless data services in the U.S. Before coming to OmniSky, Mr. Street served as Vice President International at Palm Computing and 3Com. Mr. Street earned an honors degree in business from Sheffield Hallam University in the United Kingdom and is a member of the Institute of Directors.

C. Bowdoin Train

The Grosvenor Funds

Member

C. Bowdoin Train joined the first Grosvenor Fund in December 1995 from Clean Air Capital Markets, an environmental investment bank where he served as counsel. He graduated from Trinity College and received his law degree in 1982 from Georgetown University. His law practice at Shaw, Pittman, Potts & Trowbridge in Washington, D.C. focused on corporate finance, including venture capital transactions and mergers and acquisitions. In 1991, Mr. Train joined the Administration of President George Bush as a senior official in the Environmental Protection Agency. With the exception of his time in public service, Mr. Train has been active in founding, financing, managing, and advising private companies across several industries including health care, telecommunications, and software. Among his charitable activities, Mr. Train serves on the board of the Nature Conservancy (Maryland/D.C. Chapter), and recently completed three years of service on the Board of Hospice Care of the District of Columbia.

Norm A. Fogelsong

Institutional Venture Partners (IVP)

Member

Norm Fogelsong has more than twenty years of venture capital experience at two industry-leading venture firms. He joined IVP as a General Partner in 1989 after spending nine years as a General Partner at Mayfield Fund. As a Managing Director of IVP, Mr. Fogelsong emphasizes investments in private expansion-stage Internet and communications companies, management spinouts, and selected public market opportunities. At Mayfield, Mr. Fogelsong led the firm's investments in Aspect Communications (ASPT), Compaq Computers (HPQ), Convex Computers (HPQ), and Lam Research (LRCX), and participated in the firm's founding investments in Silicon Graphics (SGI) and 3COM (COMS). Prior to joining Mayfield Fund, Mr. Fogelsong specialized in corporate strategy as a management consultant with McKinsey & Company, and served as a computer systems analyst in corporate finance at Hewlett-Packard. Mr. Fogelsong has a B.S. in Industrial Engineering (Phi Beta Kappa) from Stanford University, an M.B.A. from Harvard Business School, and a J.D. from Harvard Law School.